ABOUT SEMINAR:

Entrepreneurship and innovation are increasingly important in all areas of business and government. Entrepreneurial start-ups galvanise the economy by identifying new opportunities and redirecting resources to them.

Established firms innovate in order to outmanoeuvre or respond to their competition. And in the public sector, the need for effective policies to deal with new challenges and for increasing service delivery with declining budgets also places a premium on innovative thinking.

The seminar focuses on the skills necessary for the planning, development and launch of entrepreneurial and innovative ventures.

ABOUT SEMINAR:

Entrepreneurship and innovation are increasingly important in all areas of business and government. Entrepreneurial start-ups galvanize the economy by identifying new opportunities and redirecting resources to them.

Established firms innovate in order to outmaneuver or respond to their competition. And in the public sector, the need for effective policies to deal with new challenges and for increasing service delivery with declining budgets also places a premium on innovative thinking.

The seminar focuses on the skills necessary for the planning, development and launch of entrepreneurial and innovative ventures.

Summary Of How Intellectual Property Affects Life-Workshop

Venue: - Seminar Hall, Malla Reddy College of Engineering

Dated:- 20th & 21st January 2015

Attendees:- 85 Members from Industry, Academia, MSME and individual entrepreneurs

Daniel Toohey, UON Legal Centre states that Intangible assets commonly make up more than 80% of the value of a business but some of these assets are often overlooked, especially in the business establishment and development phase. This workshop will help you improve your business plan by highlighting your intangible assets and including a portfolio development plan that will explain how your intellectual property will be protected, developed, and used to create value within your business. Understand the role of patents, trade marks, naming, copyright and protecting confidential information. The workshop will also include time for participants to obtain some individual advice so bring along a copy of your existing business plan and you may walk out with a renewed focus on how you can best leverage all your intangible business assets.
